Course Description

Critical thinking is central to effective task management and decision making in high-risk situations. This class reviews how active assessment and analysis of information can help evaluate and improve the quality of thinking, and discusses the key principles and barriers to thinking critically. The course also covers the application of critical thinking through the nursing process to help staff arrive at the appropriate decision or conclusion.

Course Objectives

Following this course, the student will be able to:

1. Be able to define critical thinking.
2. Gain knowledge and insight into analyzing, reasoning and evaluating problems.
3. Become knowledgeable about intellectual standards.
4. Recognize the barriers about the application of critical thinking in nursing practice.
5. Gain knowledge about the application of critical thinking in nursing practice.
6. Be able to discuss the feeling, vision and examination models.

Who Should Attend:

Charge nurses looking to develop their leadership skills.

Mark Kaliher, Instructor

Mark Kaliher, RN, has over 20 years of nursing experience, primarily in the emergency department, where he currently works as a charge nurse at Bear Valley Community Hospital in San Bernardino County. He has experience working with a variety of teams through many years of registry work and critical care transports. For the past 10 years, Kaliher has also been instructing courses through FlexEd and the HASC, and has become one of their most requested instructors. Students report he is able to take complicated concepts and make them easier to understand. His experience as a charge nurse, combined with humor and a passion for nursing, make each course taught an enjoyable experience.

Sylvia Swager, Instructor

Sylvia Swager CRRN, BHA, has provided instruction for FlexEd since 2012, focusing on leadership classes, critical thinking, case management and other educational needs to improve the quality of patient care and help others deal with the vast changes and challenges of today's health care. Swager has more than 30 years of combined nursing experience in nursing administration and case management. She has a bachelor's degree in health administration and a certification in rehabilitation nursing (CRRN).
