

Women in Health Care Leadership Conference

A unique new certificate program for women in leadership

June 9 - 11, 2021
Virtual Conference

UCI Paul Merage
School of Business
Leadership for a Digitally Driven World™

Program Overview

The Hospital Association of Southern California (HASC) is proud to partner with the UCI Paul Merage School of Business to host its inaugural Women in Health Care Leadership Conference, a unique new certificate program for women in leadership.

While women represent 65 percent of the health care workforce, they are dramatically underrepresented at leadership and C-Suite levels. External factors contributing to this imbalance may include gender-unconscious bias, stereotypes, discrimination and organizational processes and systems. There are also internal factors relating to confidence, aspirations, ambitions and motivation that may hinder a women's advancement to leadership roles.

The Women in Health Care Leadership Conference aims to address many of these internal factors that can limit women who aspire to leadership roles as well as women seeking to advance their careers as leaders. During this three-day conference, attendees will acquire new skills and practical techniques that have real-world applications chart ways forward.

The conference features UCI distinguished faculty, executive leadership coaches and C-level executives. UCI Paul Merage School of Business has a longstanding commitment to diversity and inclusion, and is the No. 1 business school in the world for percentage of female faculty (Financial Times, 2019). Lively and compelling panels of top female executives and leaders in the health care industry will share their inspirational stories, unique challenges and how they overcame limiting factors. Attendees will also have multiple opportunities to meet with exhibitors and network with friends and colleagues.

Objectives

At the conclusion of this conference, attendees will be able to:

- Create a personal vision and build resilience
- Apply negotiation techniques for better outcomes
- Change mindsets through the power of presence, influence and credibility
- Lead your people and impact performance through uncertain times
- Understand how women on health care boards shape organizations
- Recognize how a culture of empowerment shapes a transformative future

CHOC

Neiman is an award-winning marketing professional with decades of digital marketing, storytelling and branding experience. With 30 years of marketing and business-professional experience, Neiman has dedicated her career to connecting with families and children by developing innovative marketing campaigns for a range of organizations, including Fortune 500 companies and internet startups.

Neiman previously served as CMO for Ergobaby, a global baby consumer products company where she managed all aspects of the marketing mix. She's also worked in various capacities for Mattel, which she helped launch into social media and digital marketing efforts, and IKEA, which she helped introduce to the West Coast. Neiman holds an MBA from Vanderbilt University, as well as a bachelor's degree in economics from UCLA.

Sharon K. Jhawar, PharmD, MBA, BCGP

Chief Pharmacy Officer
SCAN Health Plan

As Chief Pharmacy Officer, Sharon Jhawar optimizes prescription benefits and clinical programs for SCAN Health Plan. She provides direction on the development of innovative pharmacy care programs that ensure safe and appropriate member medication use, and manages contracting, oversight and compliance of pharmacy benefit manager (PBM) operations. Sharon works cross-functionally to help drive SCAN's overarching organizational goals.

Jhawar holds a doctorate in pharmacy from the University of Southern California and a MBA from UCI Paul Merage School of Business. She is a board-certified geriatric pharmacist and a certified health care insurance executive. Jhawar speaks at a wide array of health care forums and is published in multiple journals.

Ally to Action: Panelists

Aashi Arora

Executive Coach and Principal iRISE Executive Coaching

Aashi Arora is an Executive Coach and Principal at iRISE Executive Coaching. Her RISE Model supports emerging leaders in their career trajectory through building resilience, creating impact, channeling strengths, and balancing emotional intelligence. Arora has 20-plus years of business experience in health care coaching, mentoring and leading, having held various executive and administrative roles in her career at UC Irvine. Her current practice involves coaching leaders to identify bias and strategize on how to mitigate it. Arora is a thought leader on various topics related to diversity and inclusion and is an action-oriented ally for promoting women in leadership.

Kelly Bruno

President/CEO
National Health Foundation

Kelly Bruno is President/CEO at National Health Foundation, a nonprofit organization that works within under-resourced communities to identify and advance solutions that remove barriers and promote health for all. She joined NHF in 2007. Bruno leads a team dedicated to working with local communities to tackle the social determinants of health and right the wrongs of health disparities. One of her most significant contributions was to spearhead a recuperative care program that provides hospitals with a safe place to discharge individuals experiencing homelessness. Bruno also oversees programs that are changing the way neighborhoods can access healthy foods; shifting the level of expectations teen mothers set for themselves, their academics and their futures; and making it easier and safer for South Los Angeles residents to exercise and be active.

Jackie Provost, MPH

Chief Operations Officer
Saban Community Clinic

Jackie Provost brings over a decade of experience in health care and program management. She is a chief operations officer with Saban Community Clinic. Prior to this position, was a senior director with Greg Facktor & Associates — a Los Angeles-based health care management consulting firm. Before joining GFA, she served as chief operating officer at the UMMA Community Clinic in South Central Los Angeles. She earned a MPH degree, with an emphasis on epidemiology, from UCLA — and a bachelor's in kinesiology from Occidental College.
